THOUGHTS FROM MRS. SPOONER

Psalm 19:1 The heavens proclaim the glory of God. The skies display His craftsmanship.

This has been a summer of beautiful skies for sure. It always amazes me and is something to behold, the changes we see as the wildfires have filled the sky with lingering smoke and we see that bright red sun shining through it. Just this week, I stopped along the highway to capture a photo of the fireball setting in the western sky over the Elkhorn Mountain range. I immediately texted the picture to my family members because it was so crazy beautiful and it was worth sharing!

Our God truly does “show-up” in all circumstances. He does not hide or leave when the going gets tough, when it feels like the smoke is covering the beauty in our lives and things seem to be going wrong, He shines brighter than ever. He comes alongside of us in such a way that we become overwhelmed by his presence and we call our family and friends to tell them about his goodness. The next time the heavens proclaim the glory of God, take a photo, save it as your screen saver and be reminded of His love for you.

From our three and four year olds who are just beginning their school journey to our four graduating seniors, I am looking forward to the year ahead and praying for each student who will be attending HCA! Together we will set goals, work hard, play, pray and grow.

I love teaching your kids, Mrs. Spooner
